

Center for Social and Demographic Analysis

COLLOQUIUM

“Increasing Inequality in Parent Incomes and Children’s Completed Schooling: Correlation or Causation?”

by

Greg J. Duncan, Ph.D.

Distinguished Professor

School of Education and Departments of Economics (by courtesy) and Psychology and Social Behavior (by courtesy) University of California at Irvine

Friday, September 6, 2013

3:30 pm

Business Administration Building, Room B-29
University at Albany – Main Campus

Dr. Greg Duncan holds the title of Distinguished Professor in the School of Education at the University of California, Irvine. Duncan received his PhD in economics from the University of Michigan and spent the first 35 years of his career at the University of Michigan and Northwestern University. Duncan’s recent work has focused on estimating the role of school-entry skills and behaviors on later school achievement and attainment and the effects of increasing income inequality on schools and children’s life chances. Duncan was President of the Population Association of America in 2008 and the Society for Research in Child Development between 2009 and 2011. He was elected to the National Academy of Sciences in 2010.

Reception following talk