

Center for Social and Demographic Analysis
COLLOQUIUM

“Food Insecurity and Homelessness
in the Journeys Home Survey”

By

David C. Ribar, Ph.D.
Professorial Research Fellow
Melbourne Institute of Applied Economic and Social Research
University of Melbourne

Friday, November 21, 2014
2:00pm

Business Administration Building – Room B-29
University at Albany (Main Campus)

David Ribar is a Professorial Research Fellow at Melbourne Institute of Applied Economic and Social Research, University of Melbourne. He has a Ph.D. in Economics from Brown University. Prior to joining the Melbourne Institute, David served as a faculty member at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, The George Washington University, and the Pennsylvania State University and held one-year positions at the U.S. Census Bureau and the Administration for Children and Families. He serves as a co-editor of the Southern Economic Journal, an associate editor at the Journal of Population Economics and the Review of Economics of the Household, and on the council of the European Society for Population Economics. He is also a research fellow at the Institute for the Study of Labour (IZA). He has conducted research on child care, the consequences of teenage fertility, the economic motivations behind public and private transfers, welfare reform, and the administrative burdens of assistance programs, people's time use, food insecurity, and other topics. He has published in the American Economic Review, American Sociological Review, Journal of Political Economy, the Review of Economics and Statistics, Journal of Human Resources, Journal of Labor Economics, Journal of Public Economics, Journal of Population Economics, Demography, and other journals.

Reception following talk

