

Center for Social and Demographic Analysis

COLLOQUIUM

“The Regional Economic and Local Educational Foundations of Violence: A Spatial Analysis of Homicide across Mexico’s Municipalities”

by

Matthew C. Ingram, JD, Ph.D.
Assistant Professor, Dept of Political Science
University at Albany, SUNY

Friday, January 31, 2014
3:30 pm

Business Administration Building, Room B-29
University at Albany – Main Campus

Matt Ingram is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science in the Rockefeller College of Public Affairs and Policy at the University at Albany. His research examines various phenomena at the intersection of law, democracy, and development in Latin America, including specific projects on justice reforms, judicial behavior, judicial networks, and violence. Dr. Ingram holds a law degree (J.D. 2006) and a Ph.D. in political science (2009), both from the University of New Mexico. Prior to joining the faculty at UAlbany, he was a postdoctoral fellow at the Center for U.S.-Mexican Studies at the University of California, San Diego, and at the Kellogg Institute for International Studies at the University of Notre Dame. He was born and raised in Mexico (dual citizen - U.S. and Mexico), speaks English, Spanish, and Portuguese, and worked in probation and policing (California) for seven years prior to graduate school.

Reception following talk

