“Job mobility among parents of children with chronic health conditions: Early effects of the 2010 Affordable Care Act.”

by

Pinka Chatterji, Ph.D.
Associate Professor
Department of Economics
University at Albany, SUNY

Friday, April 24, 2015
3:30 pm

Business Administration Building, Room B-29
University at Albany – Main Campus

Dr. Chatterji is a Research Associate at the National Bureau of Economic Research, and an associate at the Center for Social and Demographic Analysis. She is a health economist and public health researcher. Her primary interests are in economics issues related to mental health, maternal and child health, and health disparities.

Reception following talk